American Society for Legal History 2017 Annual Meeting

October 26-29, 2017
Red Rock Casino Resort & Spa
Las Vegas, Nevada

For the first time, the American Society for Legal History will host its annual meeting in Las Vegas, Nevada—the entertainment capital of the world, but also, for many years, the fastest-growing city in the United States and one of America’s most diverse communities.

Las Vegas is the only city founded in the twentieth century with a population of more than two million at the beginning of the twenty-first century. It also has been ground zero in the history of the Cold War, as the urban area closest to aboveground atomic testing and the Nevada National Security Site, and in law enforcement efforts to control organized crime.

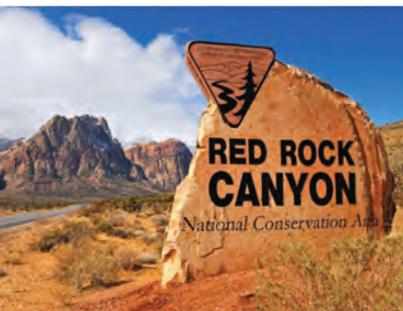

That’s why the post conference party on Saturday night, October 28, will be held at the The Mob Museum, also known as the National Museum of Organized Crime and Law Enforcement, located in the city’s first federal building, and featuring exhibits ranging from Estes Kefauver’s organized crime hearings (which were held in its courtroom) to the wall and ballistics evidence from the St. Valentine’s Day Massacre.

Our conference venue will be the Red Rock Casino Resort & Spa, which boasts every imaginable amenity. It’s located near the beautiful Red Rock Canyon National Conservation Area, a local haven and heaven for hikers, bikers, and nature lovers. And, on Friday, October 27, attendees will travel to the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV), for the plenary session and a reception, hosted by Dean Dan Hamilton of the UNLV William S. Boyd School of Law.

The UNLV William S. Boyd School of Law has nearly 400 students and offers three juris doctor degree programs: a full-time day program, a part-time day program and a part-time evening program. The school also offers a Master of Laws (LL.M.) in Gaming Law and Regulation and three dual degree programs: a J.D./MBA, a J.D./M.S.W. and a J.D./Ph.D. It is fully accredited by the American Bar Association and a member of the Association of American Law Schools.
